DEFEAT

No one is beaten till he quits;
No one is through till he stops,
No matter how hard Failure hits,
No matter how often he drops,
A fellow's not down till he lies
In the dust and refuses to rise.

Fate can slam him and bang him around
And batter his frame till he's sore,
But he never can say that he's downed
While he bobs up serenely for more.
A fellow's not dead till he dies,
Nor beaten till no longer he tries!

By Francis Collins Miller in T. P. A. Magazine.

The extraordinary durability of the ancient Egyptian mummy cloth is believed to be due to the fact that it was finished with a vegetable oil derived from the African locust bean tree.

In the rear of St. Paul's church, on Broadway and Vesey street, New York, on the edge of the stone steps are two little pieces of iron or a statue, which were most essential before Broadway was even macadamized, says the New York Post. They are footcrucifiers, and it is said that they were bunt down some time in Manhattan before others could be found. Years ago most homes and places of business had foot crucifiers at both ends of the building. Indeed it was a mark of a gentleman to enter a home or shop without scraping the mud or snow off your feet.

Colonel R. J. Storey, who was a veterinary surgeon of the British army during the war, has taken to the pastoral life now—on a very large scale. He is raising sheep and cattle on the high plains of southern Peru, under the aegis of the Peruvian government and the Papal Corporation. His experimental and survey work he finds absorbing, and he expresses the opinion that some day this region will become one of the richest grazing territories in the through export breeding of the country's valuable native wool-bearing animals, the vicuna and guanaco.

With the purchase of a tiny plot in the bay of Biscay, Sarah Bernhardt has practically completely preparations for her death. The little rocky island is only a few acres in extent, being a number of miles off the mainland near Belle Isle, where she has a summer home. Mrs. Bernhardt has specified that she be buried on the island. The island was bought from the French government for $100,000 francs. Mrs. Bernhardt has made detailed plans for her funeral and the design for the tomb, to be erected upon the island. She has already purchased the necessary tools and materials, and she is now busy with the preparations. Mrs. Bernhardt is as lively and vivacious as ever.

Pigeons are used extensively in forest fire fighting.
